in others' fashions. And no matter what the line of footwear may be, the much desired individuality is always present.

It is so in shoes for street wear. There are shown here as many styles in walking boots as will be seen in any of the largest New York shops. All the new creations in dull and bright leathers, with and without tips, are shown.

All the new effects in "College" boots - the exclusive things which suit the fancy of college boys and girls.

All the new fashions in sporting footwear - tennis, golfing, riding, hunting and gymnasium wear-not a style or so of a sort, but all that are correct and in good form.

Just now you are no doubt refurnishing the livery. The question of boots can be settled here in a few minutes, as we show all the new fashions from foremost makers.

Special attention is directed to the new showing of wedding, evening and reception footwear, which embraces every shade in every fashionable material and comprising over a hundred sorts.

Our line of Fall footwear starts at $3.50 and we sell the very best $3.50 shoes to be had in the city.

THE INDEPENDENT VOTE

Strength of Anti-Amendment Democrats Regarded as Significant In-

Special From a Staff Correspondent. BALTIMORE, Md., October 14.-Neither concede that they will fail to carry the city and declare that they are sure to win throughout the state.

The registration lists will not be completed for the entire state until next Wednesday, when it will be known how voters have declared themselves in respect to party affiliation. Every one is anxious to learn the extent of the "independent" vote, as that vote will at once be placed to the credit of the democrats who will vote against the amendment. The strength that is to be developed by the anti-amendment democrats will be regarded as one of the most significant indications of the way the campaign is taking shape that can be definitely known before the election takes place. Mr. Leigh Bonsal, chairman of the campaign committee of the Anti-Poe Amend-ment Association, stated to me today that he is certain that the democratic opponents of the plan to disfranchise the colored voters of the state have gained in strength very materially since the election of the legislature that adopted the constitutional amendment. For that reason alone he is quite sanguine that the vote on the ratification of the amendment will result in defeat. Mr. Bonsal is working among what he terms the best element of the demo-cratic party for votes to defeat the amend-

Ambitions of Gorman. ical ambitions of Senator Gorman. That, he says, is the real issue of the campaign. He declares that such action is not necessary in order to keep the white voters in control of the state, as the colored vote is but 18 per cent, or less than one-fifth, of the whole. The conditions in Maryland, he says, are far from being comparable to Mississippi, South Carolina, Alabama and other southern states that have an overwhelming population of colored people. "People complain about the conduct of the colored people in the cars and on the streets, about the property disadvantages that they meet by having colored men purchase property adjoining their own holdings, and of kindred matters," said Mr. Bonsal, "but the Poe amendment cannot affect those conditions, whatever they are. The fact is, no one of intelligence here fears that the colored people are threat-ened by any danger of negro domination. is merely put forward to serve the purpose of Senator Gorman, who, with the negro vote elim-inated and with the power his friends would have under the amendment, would be both lines of work. Estimates the need for disfranchisement in the countries was the chief thing at the back of the Poe amendment. He realized that the amendment would not be apt to appeal to the people of this city with the force that it would have in the counties that have hand to the people in these counties," he said. "They want our help to rid them of the danger they suffer in having, in some cases, more colored than white voters."

ment denouncing the Poe amendment, and very largely the naturalized citizens who are not familiar with the English language are being shown how easily they can be disfranchised. The republicans seem to have the best of the situation in the claim that this class of citizens would lose their and the democrats are endeavoring to satand the democrats are endeavoring to satisfy them that their purpose was solely to deprive the colored people of the ballot. They point to Virginia and other southern states as evidence of the way in which the amendment would work. They want the naturalized citizens to accept their word that they have no intention of depriving them of their political rights.

It is very difficult for even the leaders who are in closest touch with the situation to learn the sentiment of this class of voters. They do not, as a rule, speak English. and represent half a dozen different nation alities. Reports are received at headquarters that they are greatly exercised over the situation, but how their votes are to be cast on election day is very hard to de-termine. They all have an opportunity to learn the two sides of the amendment as it affects them, as both parties have printed pamphlets in all the languages that are represented among the foreign element, and they have been distributed freely they have been distributed freely.

They form a very important part of the problem to be determined on election day, as they will be able to cast several thou-sand votes, and they may be able to throw the victory one way or the other.

Prominent republicans claim to have evidence that during the past few months there has been a strong trend of public opinion against the ratification of the amendment and that they are stronger by amendment and that they are stronger by several thousand votes today than they were a couple of months ago. To such an extent has this feeling of confidence taken hold of some of the men who are usually readily inclined to contribute toward the expenses of the campaign that they have doubted whether it is worth while to incur much expense, even for the distribution of much expense, even for the distribution of literature. This feeling of confidence has no hold on the active leaders in the campaign and they are engaged in endeavoring to impress every one interested in the defeat of the Poe amendment that overconfidence is a dangerous thing. READY FOR ROOSEVELT

RICHMOND'S PLANS FOR RECEP-TION OF THE PRESIDENT,

RICHMOND, Va., October 14, 1905. Were Theodore Roosevelt coming to this alty to be inaugurated President of the United States the event could not and would not attach more interest than does his visit of Wednesday. The capital of the confederacy is being made gay with bunting and color. National flags are to be seen at every turn, and scores of lithographic pictures of the President are to be found in the windows of many stores and office buildings.

Famed for hospitality the world over, Virginia will see that the capital city maintains the reputation and dignity of the state on the occasion of the visit of the President. The foremost business, professional and public men are co-operating to make the visit memorable, and if the President quits the confines of the state without a good opinion of the old dominion it will be through no lack of desire or effort to do everything that will make his stay pleas-

Twenty thousand school children will greet him with waving flags and sounds of welcome, convincing him that "race sui-cide" has no footing here. Cannon will boom a salute. The military establishment of the state will accord him full honors. An official welcome will be made on behalf of the state by the governor; on behalf of the city by the mayor.

The President's Address.

From a stand being erected in the Capitol square he is to make an address to the people of the city. He will stand in sight of the Washington monument; near by is the marble statue of Clay. To the north and east of him will be the state building, in which sat the confederate congress, the plans for the building having been brought to this country from France by Thomas Jefferson more than a century and a quarter past. The city and state offices will be closed in honor of the visit of the President, so that all possible honor may be accorded the chief magistrate of the nation. After the speech has been made President Roosevelt is to be taken to Old St. John's Church, where he is to hear repeated the speech of Patrick Henry, who sounded the first notes of freedom from British rule.

Every precaution will be taken to see that no accident can befall the President. The entire police force of the city will be in attendance and the military will be in attendance and the military will form an es cort that will prevent any crowding or discomfort while the President is sightseeing. The secret service men will be reinforced and will be close at hand all the time. Every man who approaches will be known to the committees in charge of the arrangements and absolute freedom and safety will be amply provided It is expected that at least fifty thousand strangers will be in the city the day on which the President comes. Every railroad entering the city has made special rates for the occasion, and all are preparing to handle great crowds. All the hotels have orders for rooms and the trolley cars into bout the city are expected to add their full quota to the city's population in honor o the visit of the President. The line of the parade will be through the principal streets of the city, and the escorts of honor, the military, the several committees and those who will be directly connected with entertaining the President will make up a pageant that will live in the minds of the people for many years to Piedmont Convocation Comes to Close.

LEESBURG, Va., October 14, 1905. The Piedmont convocation, which has been in session at St. James' Episcopal burch in Leesburg since this evening. This convocation has been a particularly good one, for there was an unusually large number of ministers present, large congregations, and especially interesting services. Irvine di Zerega of New York city and Miss Martha A. di Zerega, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Alfred di Zerega of Aldie, Loudoun county, were married Thursday afternoon at the Church of Our Redeemer in Aldie by Rev. John F. Coleman, rector, assisted by Rev. Arthur L. Johns of Christ Church, Washington, D. C.

Promptly at 12:30 o'clock the bride, preceded by the four ushers, Mr. Gasquet di Zerega of Aldie, brother of the bride; Baron von Brittian of New York, Master Alfred di Zerega of Aldie, nephew of the bride; Dr. Louis di Zerega of New York, and the two maids, Miss Emily di Zerega, sister of the bride, and Miss Alice Wall of Washington, D. C., entered the church upon the arm of her father, who gave her away, and met the groom with his best man, Mr. Walze of New York, at the altar. The bride's gown was a very handsome and becoming one of ivory satin and she carried a large bouquet of bride roses. She also wore a veil, which was caught with orange blossoms. The two maids wore gowns of white silk, and carried large bouquets of bridesmaids' roses. The mother of the bride was becomingly attired in a handsome black silk grenadine.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at "Aldie," the beautiful home of the bride's parents, after which the young couple took the train at Leesburg for a bridal tour of several weeks.

FRANCE AND VENEZUELA. Disposition to Give Castro Time to Make Amends.

was located in Baltimore before coming

PARIS, October 14.-The view prevails in official quarters that a month may elapse before a decision is reached as to what steps shall be taken against Venezuela. This indicates that there is a desire on the part of France to give President Castro ample epportunity to make amends, and to exhaust all diplomatic recourse before resorting to other means.

French officials first considered withdrawing M. Taigny, the charge d'affaires at Caracas, and the severing of diplomatic relations with Venezuela, and this would have been done if Venezuela were a country amenable to ordinary procedure.

It was recognized, however, that a severance of relations would not compel President Castro to settle the questions between France and Venezeula, but, on the contrary, would leave French interests there without protection of a legation, and therefore the thought of a diplomatic rupture was given up and France is seeking, with the co-operation of the United States, to devise a means for a diplomatic adjustment of the situation with President Castro. This is proceeding so slowly that officials here are beginning to foresee that stronger measures will be necessary, although they say another month's grace is likely to be given Venezuela before decisive measures are adopted. An official of the French Cable Company says his company desired a settlement with President Castro, but subordinated its interests to those of France, which, having received an affront, must first receive satisfaction. Despite the denial of the ministry of marine, the Patrie reiterates the statement that a naval division consisting of the cruisers Desaix, Lavoiser and Chasseloup-Lau-bat is preparing for a demonstration in

Venezuelan waters. RUSSIA, AND JAPAN AT PEACE. Final Conclusion of Treaty by Empe-

Early in the day the foreign office received a notification from St. Petersburg that Emperor Nicholas would probably sign the treaty during the day and would ask France to communicate the fact of ratification to Japan. Premier Rouvier accordingly remained in his office throughout the day for the purpose of immediately transmitting the mess-age. Notice of the signing of the treaty in St. Petersburg did not reach here until 6 o'clock this evening, when the Russian embassy received a dispatch saying that Emperor Nicholas had affixed his signature to the document and requesting that France be asked to transmit the information to Japan.

In the absence of Ambassador Nelidoff, the counselor of the embassy, M. Neklloudoff, went to the foreign office at 7 o'clock this evening and met Premier Rouvier, whom he informed of the signing of the treaty at St. Petersburg and requested that Japan be informed of the resumption of dip-logatic relations between the two countries. PAPAL ENVOY COMING HERE To Investigate Educational Matters Affecting the Church.

Special Dispatch to The Star. NEW YORK, October 14.-A cablegram from Rome says: Pius X has just announced his decision to sen dto the United States a high prelate to investigate all educational matters affecting the church in America and to visit all the principal Catholic institutions in that country.

The working of parochial schools will form a special object of inquiry on the part of the papal envoy, as information has been received at the Vatican that, notwithstanding the large number of parochial schools established of late in nearly every parish, thousands of Catholic children are still to be found attending public schools. This, it has been reported here, is particularly the case in New York with children of Italian parents, of whom more than 25,000 are enrolled in the public schools.

Plus X wishes to know if it is not possible to establish special church schools for children of Italians in those cities in which many live.

The plan suggested some years ago Bishop Conaty of Los Angeles, at the time rector of the Catholic University at Washington, which was to convert some of the Catholic colleges at present existing in America into regular high schools, is also said to be looked into.

ACTIVE FIGHT FOR REPUBLICAN

LEGISLATIVE CANDIDATE. Judge Lewis and Secretary Shaw to Speak During Campaign-Gen-

special Correspondence of The Star.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., October 14, 1905. The republicans of this city and Alexandria county are making an active fight in support of Mr. John B. Henderson, their minee for the house of delegates to oppose Mr. James R. Caton, the democratic candidate. Mr. Henderson's home is in Alexandria county, where he is well and favorably known. He will have an opportunity to present his claims to the voters of this city next Monday evening, when he will be one of the speakers at the republican mass meeting to be held in Lannon's Opera House.

It is asserted by the democrats that Mr. Caton will have no difficulty in winning by a good majority, but the republicans, while admitting that the odds are heavily against them, are showing a determination to fight the matter out to the finish. It is said they will poll a large vote in Alexandria county. Campaign literature, in relation particularly to the state contest, is being distributed by the republican leaders among the voters of both parties here. A feature of this is the school-book question, free oks for public school scholars being warmly advocated.

Judge L. L. Lewis, the republican candidate for governor, is not expected to at-tend the mass meeting Monday night, but it is understood that both he and Secretary of the Treasury Shaw will speak in Alex-andria before the campaign closes.

republicans nor democrats are inclined to talk with great confidence about the out come of the state election beyond the usual statements on both sides that everything is progressing satisfactorily. So far as Baltimore is concerned, the republicans express confidence that they will defeat the Pot amendment to the constitution for the disfranchisement of the colored voters, but they look with much misgiving upon the condition in the counties that have a large colored population. The Naturalized Voters. The greatest attention is being paid to the naturalized voters in Baltimore, and today more literature is being circulated among that class of voters than any others. The Poe amendment has resulted in upsetting all calculations of the vote of this class of the people who are to help decide the fate of the state next month. The republican and independent democratic managers are making it very plain to these people that the plan of disfranchisement throws grave doubt on their right to vote, because they would make a sorry spectacle in their efforts to satisfy the supervisors that they understand the constitution, unless it should be known beforehand that they would vote the way the supervisors desired.
